Permanent and Portable Vinyl Floors

Permanent or Portable?

- A permanent vinyl floor is glued down with adhesive and can't be removed without risking damage to the floor.
- A semi-permanent (portable) vinyl floor is loose-laid using double-sided tape and then welded at the seams. The seams can later be cut and the floor taken up.
- A loose-laid (portable) vinyl floor is rolled out and the seams are either covered with tape or temporarily secured to the sub-floor on the underside with double-sided tape.
